

MUSEUMS

PICK OF THE WEEK: The lobby of the Balzekas Museum has been illuminated for the past three months with an LED sculptural commemoration of Stalin's mass deportation of Polish people to Siberian labor camps. "Siberia Souls," now extended through December, includes some of the more than 400 lost letters and photographs of families sent from Siberia. The documentation was found through the Hope and Spirit project organized by artist and historian Audrius (Andy) Plioplys. Through Dec. 31, Balzekas Museum of Lithuanian Culture, 6500 S. Pulaski Road; 773-582-6500, balzekasmuseum.org

Chicago Tribune
A+E

ARTS+ENTERTAINMENT

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 2015

ANDY PLIOPLYS PHOTO

"Siberia Souls: Children" by artist and historian Audrius (Andy) Plioplys is part of the "Siberia Souls" exhibit, running through Dec. 31 at the Balzekas Museum of Lithuanian Culture.